

JUNE 2021 HIGHLIGHTS

Die Byl

Drama

Tuesdays at 20:00

With Waldemar Schultz, Marvin-Lee Beukes, Lika Berning, Eric Nobbs, Milan Murray and Trudy van Rooy

1 June

The past starts haunting the team like a toxic ghost. The serial killer's obsessions reach breaking point, and she leads one of the team members into a trap.

8 June

A poor community is tormented by greedy community leaders. Until one of them decides enough is enough and starts murdering them with snake poison.

15 June

Byl and Nicki prepare themselves for a home visit from Mischa and a social worker. Juan makes a breakthrough with the allegations against him.

22 June

Byl's greatest nightmare comes true when one of the members of his team is abducted. Juan wants to ask Shani to marry him.

29 June

Byl has to devise a plan to save his team from sure death. In the nail-biting season finale, the team can only rely on one another for survival.

In die Sop

Reality TV

Wednesdays at 20:00

With Bertus Basson as presenter

In June, the In die sop team visit Wellington, Stanford, Saldanha and Witsand to guide restaurant owners on a new way to success. Errieda du Toit, food expert and producer of the show, says the making of the series is a moving experience.

Why does In die sop move you so deeply?

The humanity of the stories. People are proud and to admit you need help, is hard. To ask for help is not a desperate deed – it's brave. People show you how hard they are willing to work and how much they would really love to succeed. They don't simply give up. The restaurant industry has always been tough, and if you throw a pandemic in the mix, it becomes even harder to survive. People are treated honestly but with a soft touch. It's very constructive. Nobody is humiliated for the entertainment of others.

What would your favourite plate of food consist of?

It's all about simplicity because life is complicated enough. Except for Christmas, when tables groan under the weight of all the festive food, I am happy with three good things on my plate, but it has to be a reflection of where I find myself – in other words, I want food from the region.

What do you consider to be the five most iconic South African ingredients?

Corn flour and Karoo lamb. Buttermilk rusks are not ingredients, but it's part of a very South African ritual. Wine, especially South African pinotage. When it comes to spices, I'm torn between coriander and cinnamon. I can't imagine boerewors without coriander, but nothing consoles like cinnamon.

What are the new food trends this winter?

Local is in, and not just local but hyperlocal – to support the small businesses in your direct vicinity like people who deliver vegetables to your front door or the local bakery. In times of uncertainty, we also crave old family favourites or comfort food like spaghetti bolognese or milk food. There is also a revival in the use of canned and pickled food. We don't want to go to the shops every day, and we are looking for new ways to prepare meals with a tin of fish. There is also a trend toward more plant-based diets which we are increasingly recognising as an alternative. South-Africans are meat eaters, but now people often eat meat only three times a week, and they tend to use cheaper cuts. In other words, still meat, but less of it and less expensive options.

If you had to have a restaurant, what would always be on the menu?

There will always be bread and butter on the menu. It is great to offer someone a wonderful piece of bread to say: "Welcome to my table!"

Op my Eish!

Reality TV

Thursdays at 20:00

With Neels van Jaarsveld, and Henré Pretorius as presenter

Things get interesting in On my eish as the group of women grows smaller and the competition for Neels van Jaarsveld's attention becomes more intense. In June, the contestants will, among other things, feed penguins, play golf and go to the theatre. However, the trip to the theatre leads to more drama off-stage than on the boards.

Neels answers five quick questions about love and life:

What is your favourite travel destination in South Africa?

The Kruger National Park. There, nature rules. Your mind goes on holiday. It's total relaxation with excitement around every corner.

What is your favourite word to describe love?

Passionate.

What is the love song that melts your heart?

"Toe vind ek jou" by Francois van Coke and Karen Zoid.

Sunrise or sunset?

Sunrise. I have a soft spot for new beginnings.

What have you learned through the whole Op my eish process?

That there are still people with good hearts. That love still exists. That most problems can be sorted out with good communication. Always be yourself.

Op my eish!*, Thursdays at 20:00 on kykNET (DStv channel 144).

Die Groenste Vingers

Reality TV

Thursdays at 21:00

With Edrien Erasmus as presenter

3 June

In this round, all the losers are back in the greenhouse, and the winner is back in the competition. Franz and Leon give a master class with aspidistra leaves.

10 June

This is the first quarter final. Diane van der Merwe and Marcel Augustyn-Clarke are back, and they have to use an Oasis as a base for the creation of a floral chicken.

17 June

Flower lovers Gerhardt Oosthuizen and Francois du Toit have to create their own flower containers and decorate it with natural materials.

24 June

Christina du Preez and Corli Leonard are tasked with arranging an impressive table bouquet, using only indigenous flowers and plants.

Binnelanders

Daily soap

Weekdays at 19:30

Forget the winter and rest assured, Binnelanders will not leave you cold in the coming month. On the contrary, things are going to happen in the corridors of Binneland Clinic that will have you hot under the collar and gasping in disbelief.

The new season of Binnelanders kicks off on Monday 7 June. Various guest stars will be part of the action: Robbie Wessels, Beáte Opperman, Tiaan Rautenbach, Ronel Kriel, Wilson Dunster and Gerald Steyn will all play their part in keeping viewers on the edge of their seats.

Louis takes pity on a homeless person but doesn't realise that this Elvis is not really a stranger. When Okkie runs into Elvis, sparks fly. If Louis had known Elvis's true identity, would he still have been willing to go so far out of his way to lend a helping hand?

When the reason for Ruan's internet use comes to light, it's almost too late to ask any questions. There is, however, something Steve and Elana simply have to ask him and Vicky, but the timing could be all wrong.

Helena Bester (Ronel Kriel) surprises her grandchildren, but she's not the only Bester to show up in Pretoria unexpectedly: George (Tiaan Rautenbach) and Nellie (Beáte Opperman) arrive on her heels. Helena's motives are pure, but the same cannot be said of the two other Besters.

There are a lot of burning questions – just ask Conrad. There are quick answers to Elana's questions, but the answers he's looking for are more complicated: Can and should one forgive? Because forgiving also means forgetting, and for someone with the memory of an elephant that is very hard to do.

Someone who definitely doesn't know what he's in for, is Uys Wagner – the handsome new red-headed locum. He causes a stir straight away. Tertius and Annelize are at loggerheads about his appointment, and another redhead wants to know all about him. And when he doesn't disclose everything, she formulates her own theories. But how much of this speculation was caused by Binneland Stereo, and how much is based on the truth. Uys and Annelize are the only people who know what really happened, but neither of them are talking. Maybe that's why the man treats rules and regulations with such casual disregard and is so fond of naughty fun.

Faf Gosslin always has a lot to say, but now he suddenly wants to put his money where his mouth is. To carry out his plans he needs the help of his auburn-haired daughter, and Maya loves her dad despite his cruel behaviour in the past. Somebody who won't be fooled by a wolf in sheep's clothing though, is Tracy. But how is she supposed to remedy the situation if nobody will listen to her? It may be time to bring out the big guns but, seeing as there had already been one or two skirmishes, mutual doubt will certainly have an influence on a shared concern.

Binnelanders*, weekdays at 19:30 on kykNET (DStv channel 144).

Suidooster

Daily soap

Weekdays at 18:30

Hearts shatter in Suidooster when Imraan and Kaashifa's marriage falls apart. Zoë struggles to make sense of a big disclosure that is threatening her marriage.

It seems that new love may blossom for Rhafiek. He is finally ready to move on from Carmen, and there is potential for a relationship with a woman who is definitely going to raise a few eyebrows. Tyron and Lee-Ann are ready to take the next big step. Are we hearing wedding bells?

Susan and Elana move to Ruitersbosch and quickly make themselves at home in their new neighbourhood. They have big plans for the new chapter in their lives and open a bar, but it soon transpires that Susan and Justin have a past that might seriously complicate matters.

A shocking event rocks Ruitersbosch, and Bridgette loses control of her life because of Nazeem and Tim's scheming. Ruitersbosch's iron woman soon finds herself in a life-threatening situation.

She and her family may never be the same, but it seems as though the Jacobs throne is finally within Nazeem's reach.

Suidooster*, weekdays at 18:30 on kykNET (DStv channel 144).

Getroud met rugby

Daily soap

Weekdays at 18:00

Nesie discovers her calling. Amanda is upset after a suggestive photo of Reitz and Ryno is published. She feels threatened by their friendship.

Renate finds out she was conceived in England and decides to travel there to try and find out who she really is.

Everybody has trouble putting up with Buks and Nesie after a burst pipe leaves them homeless.

Simon and Renate ask Lulu to be their child's godmother, but they are furious when they learn she has asked other people to be the godparents of her own baby.

Virginia has to try and stop Yvonne from taking over Simon and Renate's house completely.

Kristien realises she has strong feelings for a certain man.

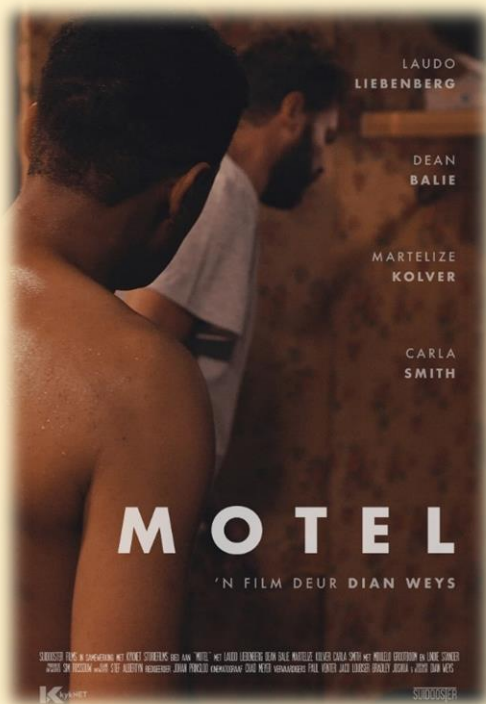

JJ is back and tries to blackmail Bart, of all people.

Jana finds a new, addictive hobby.

It's Fafa's birthday, and he throws a rocking party in Pottie's. The party inspires him to do something that Maryke is not happy about.

Arendsvlei

Telenovela

Mondays to Thursdays at 19:30

Tensions run high when Wendy has to appear in court. A number of Arendsvlei residents have to testify against Wendy – from Langes and Debra to Zane and Bompie. During the trial, evidence is presented that exposes Wendy's gruesome deeds. When the information around David's death is made public, poor Beatrice and Samantha must support one another more than ever. And Janice has not forgotten about Steve. She is gathering information and getting ready to make sure Wendy ends up behind bars. So many people are against Wendy, and the case is strong, but, as we know, Wendy always has a trick or two up her sleeve.

A nasty article about Thys is published in the newspaper. Somehow, news got out that he is involved with the sexual harassment case, and parents put two and two together. Beatrice, Ronel and Janice must try and act objectively, and poor Gertie's heart breaks for her son. Thys can do nothing except to try and prove his innocence, but will that be enough?

On a lighter note, viewers get to meet Arendsvlei's first influencer. Tiffany is a new learner in Hoërskool Arendsvlei, and Mielies can't stop talking about her. Elsa is a little worried and doesn't trust Tiffany – so much so that she starts making up lies. But Tiffany doesn't care what people think of her. As long as her Instagram following grows, everybody can do as they please as far as she's concerned.

Arendsvlei, Mondays to Thursdays at 19:30 on kykNET&kie (DStv channel 145).
